DEDICATION

Build as we may of brick and mortar, cement and strong steel, these are but passing things in the unending growth of Man. Truth and humility, faith and honor, wisdom, beauty and character--only these are incorruptible and immortal. Because Mrs. Hohreiter and Mr. Black have laid up for us these treasures on earth, the cornerstones of our lives, to them in grateful remembrance, we, the Class of 1952 do dedicate our "ECHO"

In September, Sixty-seven pupils registered in the eighth grades. We have only lost three of them so far. They are Shirley Thorpe, Harry Rozelle and Paule Milles.

In October we had a Hallowe'en Party with some of the pupils furnishing the refreshments.

We had a skating party in November to which the seventh grade invited us. Everyone had a wonderful time even with the bumps we got while skating.

Some of the boys and girls are decorating our rooms with running pine for our Christmas Party we will have in December.

The eighth grade boys played football and basketball. The girls had soccer and volleyball intramurals.

We made $155.41 on our magazine sale. Dick Stevens won the trophy for selling the biggest amount. Four people won certificates for selling $30 worth or more. We cancelled the pencil selling project, with the basketball schedule on them because they would have arrived too late. We are going to sell refreshments at track meets and baseball games and we hope to have a benefit movie.

Some of the projects which the sophomore class has undertaken and expects to undertake in the future are: selling refreshments at the football games held in Bainbridge, selling T-shirts with the school name and the school emblem on them, bake sales, square dances, and the selling of stationery.

STUDENT COUNCIL

President----- Jan Landre
 Vice-President----- Richard Hurlburt
 Secretary----- Pauline Palmer
 Treasurer-----Richard Niles

This year Student Council is aiming for the goal which it has been striving to reach for the past two years--to become the leading organization in the school and to gain the respect of all the high school. It is doing this by having dances, pep rallies, etc.

Left to right - FIRST ROW - D. Hoyt, D. Hurlbert, P. Palmer, J. Parsons. SECOND ROW - F. Boyd, J. Black, Mr. King, J. Singmaster, R. Lord, D. Andrews.

HONOR SOCIETY

President----- Pauline Palmer
Vice-President----- Richard Hurlbert

The National Honor Society gained a chapter in this school under the auspices of Student Council four years ago. It is a very small chapter which has as its only activities the initiating of new members and the giving of honor buttons to honor roll members at the end of each quarter. Its size is small due to the fact that each prospective member must have a high school average of eighty-eight per cent and then be judged by the faculty on qualities of leadership, character, and service. After becoming a member he must maintain each of the above four qualities. Membership is open to all juniors and seniors and to sophomores at the end of the year.

The Speech and Drama Department of Bainbridge High School exists to give the students of Bainbridge High poise and confidence in dealing with others, freedom from fear when addressing an audience, precise diction, and beauty of voice.

These ends are accomplished through producing several one-act plays, assembly programs, exchange drama festivals, three-act plays, story telling hours, discussions and debates.

The Bainbridge Players are also an established chapter of the National Thespian Society, a national society for high school dramatic clubs.

PRESS CLUB

Editor----- Eileen Youngs
 Assistant Editor----- Faye Boyd
 Cross Section Editor-----Joan Parsons

This year press club has, for the first time, set up a separate editorship for Cross Sections because the task of editing a weekly column and a monthly paper is too great for two people. In this way we hope to improve both the "Blue and White" and "Cross Section."

One of the chief purposes of press club is to help to improve the writing ability of its members and to improve the vocabulary of the whole student body.

The local chapter of F.F.A. was represented very well at the Sherburne Poultry Show on October 15, 1951. Wesley Carpenter came away with top honors from Bainbridge. Wes placed third individually and therefore goes to the Boston Poultry Show January 23, 1952. The F.F.A. boys have planted trees for several years. This has provided us with a fairly good income. Our chapter's calendar for the year contains a demonstration by Curly Marez; Movies, and demonstrations by members of the chapter. Each year we go to Ithaca during Farm and Home Week. The F.F.A. - F.H.A. Banquet is another of the highlights of the year. The parents are invited and we explain the creed, colors, and a little about each organization.

The F.F.A. is a club and a study group, working together and playing together to develop better co-operation now and in later life.

The F. H. A. is a national and state organization. Its membership is made up of girls who are taking homemaking courses in school. The Bainbridge Chapter of F. H. A. is in its 6th year. This year we have 27 members.

Our program is set up to be of service to our school, community, and home as well as an international project. We attended state meetings and have been fortunate enough to have had one state officer from our local Chapter. We also send representatives to camp and county meetings.

The F. H. A. offers us an opportunity to meet girls from other schools and we have many good times together.

GLEE CLUB

President----- Calvin Day
 Secretary-Treasurer----- Marge Eldred
 Librarian----- Doris Hoyt

The glee club now has sixty-five members.

The Christmas concert was held December 18, 1951. Mr. Novak said that the music for this concert was the most difficult music the glee club has done since he began teaching at B. C. H. S.

The glee club will present the operetta "The Pirates of Penzance" by Gilbert and Sullivan in the spring. We are in hopes that it will be as successful as last year's operetta "H. M. S. Pinafore" also by Gilbert and Sullivan.

We plan to sing a few numbers for Commencement exercises in June.

The orchestra this year is composed of thirty-nine members, many of whom are new to us this year. We are proud of the ability which they have displayed throughout the year under the able direction of Mr. Lambert and are sure the orchestra next year will be even bigger and better.

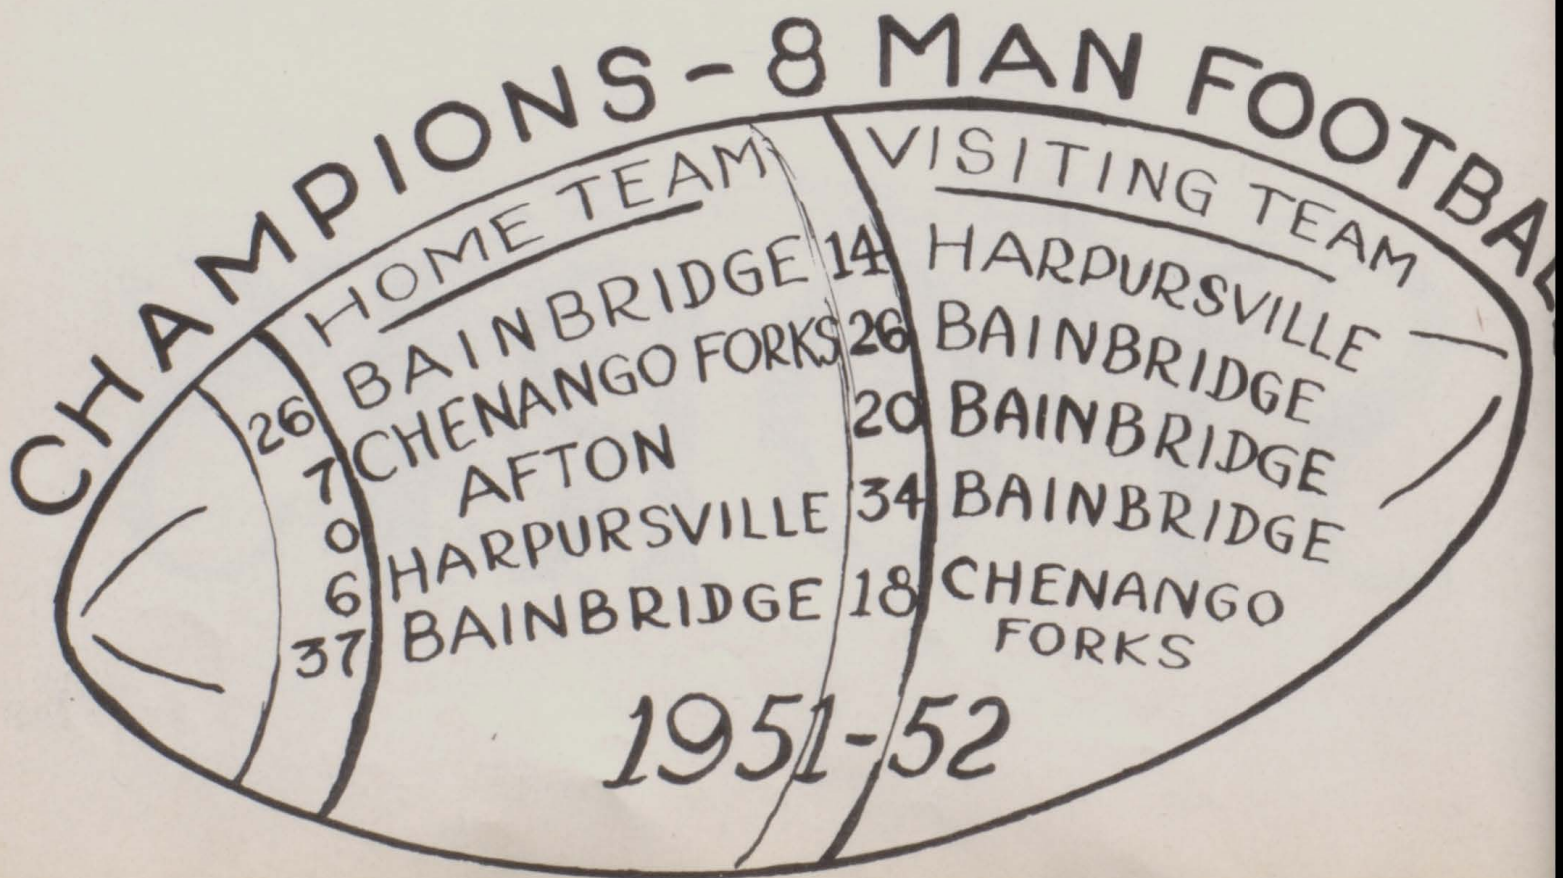

Bainbridge was honored to have the Susquenange League Festival here this year, and many of the orchestra members participated in it.

SPORTS WRITE UP

The purpose of the girls sports club is to stimulate good sportmanship among the girls, as well as to increase sport activities. All the girls in the club participate in intermurals, and some are picked to represent Bainbridge at sport days where we play soccer, volleyball, basketball, softball, track and archery.

Sometimes we have missed the trophy by a slight margin but we always have lots of fun.

The girls of "52" wish you the best of luck in the years to come and we hope you enjoy it as much as we have.

LITERARY

THE MOST UNUSUAL PERSON I'VE EVER MET

Have you ever visited the home of a formerly renowned person? Have you seen mice which are treated as one of the family? Have you ever been in a home and seen cobwebs which hang about a room as if they were actually meant to be there? I encountered all of these things on a recent visit to the home of a little old lady who was once one of the world's greatest concert pianists.

The noted person, who is now seventy-four years old, studied in Vienna, Austria for many years and also made her home there. At the outbreak of World War 1, she came to the United States and since then has established a residence in a small country town. She has become very old in appearance, but in earlier years she was a very attractive woman.

The lady to whom I refer is very eccentric. She lives in a little old house, her only companions being a pet dog and the mice which densely populate her home. Yes, she actually makes pets out of the mice, too. She feeds them cheese daily because she wants to make them feel friendly.

Her source of income is indeed very small. She has made it a custom to give an informal recital every week on Saturday night. She has a small carved-ebony box just inside her front door in which contributions are gratefully received. She depends on these to buy her groceries and other articles which are a necessity.

As an artist, she is incomparable. She has been rated seventh among the great concert pianists of the world, and has made concert tours in both Europe and the United States.

Her concerts are extremely entertaining. I can remember only too well; one of her recent concerts, she sang through the entire program. This noted lady says that she cannot enjoy playing unless she can sing too. Another time she walked onto the stage and sat down at the piano to begin her program. She started playing and suddenly stopped and remarked, "Hm, a new piano!", and then resumed playing.

This concert pianist is internationally-known and even though her concert days are over, in my estimation, her ability as a concert artist will never be equaled.

SENIOR PLAY REHEARSAL

Most of our rehearsals commenced with a lengthy lecture such as "The play is only a few days off--none of you know your parts well enough, "or with someone yelling frantically in the middle of an act "Where is Jimmy, he's supposed to come in now." or "Where's Jerry?" Jerry was usually found in some secluded corner struggling with his celluloid collar or trying to get his homework done. "Rehearsal was called for six-thirty, it is now seven-fifteen let's get started", these were the usual words uttered or yelled by Miss Schwer.

Finally, rehearsal gets underway... costumes, lights, props, food----the works.

First act: Jan and Jimmy stammer about wildly forgetting lines, remembering the right blocking at the wrong time, or the wrong blocking at the right time--or both--Jimmy usually managed to put too much food in his mouth, again at the wrong time, thus muffling his lines so they must be taken over... evidently Jim was never very hungry after this act. Barbara then came flaunting in, an imaginary fan fluttering in one hand and the other hand extended to receive a passionate kiss from Jan. She was usually followed by Betty, (or should have been), when Betty wasn't in the cafeteria practising how to say "perambulator" or "grotesque". But when she did appear she did so with all the booming bombast of the stage mother she portrayed. (She never did learn to say "grotesque" or "perambulator". Her strategically pitched voice was accompanied with an occasional giggle or gaffaw.

The second act always moved much too slow... but with much prodding and coaxing from the director, Jimmy finally kissed me... then, after a while he even retook these lines. Barbara and I never quite got through our fight scene without a giggle-spasm or the forgetting of lines. And we were always in fear that our oversize cups on our undersize saucers would slip, slide or fall with a resounding crash...

The "lawn" never was tacked down enough, thus everyone on stage tripped, letting out a stream of makeshift words in a steady flow (quite freely) aimed, as usual, at the production crew. And, then of course there was the time that the mats weren't tacked down at all--what happened?? My hoops pushed the chair, the chair pushed the grass, the grass slid, and I ended on the floor---exit Josie.

Then, Jimmy always had his little joke of coming into the act, or in the middle of an ardent love scene or violent fight scene and saying calmly, "Tennis anyone"? And Barbara Besaw never could stand still long enough for Jerry to make love to her. This perplexed Jerry to no end.

None of us shall ever forget the job that Johnnie Jones had substituting an English accent for his Southern accent. Or the times that Dick Jones had to retake entrances because his nose wasn't high enough.

Never before in anything else I had ever been in had we had the unsuspected action that we had in this production. This time the tables were turned, the boy's lipstick always came off on the girls (they didn't blot it). The love scenes always brought a becoming shade of scarlet to all concerned. The rugs always slipped, the fences were always insecure, the backdrop was always being raised or lowered because of contrary ideas concerning whether it should be used or not... then it happened!!! a member of the production crew wanted to be extra saving, so-o-o she mixed some oil with white lead and proceeded to give the freshly painted fences a coat of the mixture to serve as their second coat of paint. What a mess... Results? almost murder!!

The nineteenth finally arrived, the play produced, with of course the mistakes that must always appear to make the evening complete. It came off on schedule with a few non-script happenings. A fence fell over on to the footlights. Someone forgot to remove the pictures from my makeshift diary, a watering can was knocked over, and a side light broke throwing its shield whizzing by Pauline's ear--But she was a real trooper. She simply put on her shoes (which she had removed for the comforts of home), picked up her chair, moved it to a safer distance and proceeded to go on prompting the actors.

Result of the whole ordeal? Everyone tired--everyone enjoyed doing the play--But thank heaven it's over.

WHO WANTS TO BE A FARMER?

A good job for anyone, who likes to be his own boss, is farming. A farmer has no one to answer to, as one would have if he were working in a factory or some other business. Farming is a job for the man who likes to work outdoors, and who also likes working with animals. The larger part of the farmers' year is spent outdoors either preparing the soil for planting or reaping the harvest. The remainder of his year he spends taking care of his cows, chickens and what ever else he might have. But, farming has its difficult parts also. "A farmer's work is never done;" this is most true as I have found from experience. A farmer "gets up with the chickens" -- some times earlier--and usually goes to bed a good deal later. The modern farmer has more free time than did the farmers of the past but still not as much as a person who works his eight hours and is through. The free time he does have is often spent on something concerning the farm and other times is spent watching television or perhaps going to the local school to a class play, etc. This life may seem hard, but for the man who enjoys it, it seems easy.

A boy can learn some of the fine points of farming in his high school. Most schools have a four year agricultural course for those who are interested. After high school there is a chance for the young men to go to college if they want. They can take either a two year or a four year course at Cornell, a State College, with tuition free, or at Delhi, a State technical institute, also tuition free. This encourages many boys to go to college when they otherwise might not go.

Another "school" for boys is experience. Experience is said to be the best teacher, and the best way to get experience is to work on a farm. A high school boy can easily get a job on a farm during the summer and even during school time. It is also possible to work one's way through college by working on a nearby farm. This way it is possible to gain experience on the farm as well as the classroom. After graduating from school, the ex-student can get a steady job as a farm worker for a couple of years to gain even more on-the-spot experience as a farmer before he buys his own farm.

This leads to another thought; a young man can save his earnings to put a down payment on a dairy farm or buy a small chicken farm which costs less and makes it possible to increase the beginning capital if the young farmer is a good manager. Starting off with a small farm will help the beginner know whether or not he is capable of continuing and in which type of farming he is more interested. Dairy farming is harder to get started in than chicken farming because of the large amount of capital required to get started. The main investment is in the cattle because they cost from $ 300 to $ 500 each. The equipment runs a close second if the farmer plans to have a good farm. The earnings of a farmer depend upon how good a farm he has, and how well he manages it and makes it pay.

A farmer can have as many luxuries as any other person. Many farmers have new cars and television sets; their work is made easier by modern farm equipment; such as, tractor, combines, and field choppers. Their profits are usually enough to put their children through college and to make their own life, as they grow older, easy and happy.

"WE WILL ALWAYS REMEMBER"

Mr. Casey for his understanding and advice.

The splendid job Dick Lee did as coach of wrestling.

Eileen Youngs for her perserverance in seeing our ECHO through.

Weseley Carpenter for his enthusiasm for taking pictures.

Jimmy Singmaster for leading our class to victory or (Washington if you prefer).

Jan Landre for being the captain of our champion football squad.

The excellent leadership of Don Pixley as captain of varsity basketball.

The artistry of Marge Eldred at the piano.

Our Photography Editor, Pat Allen, for mutilating our snaps so effectively.

Mrs. Kinney for her lasting endurance and help on the ECHO.

Mrs. Benjamin's ability at the camera.

Mr. Coe for his complete cooperation on yearbook.

Doris Hoyt for her never ending energy.

Cal Day fighting for the rights of the sport department.

Josie Strasnicsak talking everybody into buying an add--thank goodness.

Mr. Dunne for chauffering us to Sidney, and we hope, to Washington.

Our typists, Leona Dibble, Gussie Mertz, and Irene Flyzik.

Mr. Cleary for putting up with us in homeroom study hall. We didn't fit very well, did we?

Mrs. Dunne for standing by in all our class projects.

Dick Gifford as being a silent partner in our class. What we needed was more silence!

Donna Pixley for her willingness to work.

Dot Gerg for her acting ability--both on and off stage!

All those who contributed snaps for this yearbook, and all others who helped us.
