INTRODUCTION

B-G is proud to offer its first ever Art Issue of the Blue & White. We would like to thank all our students for their hard work this year so far, and Mr. Ryan for offering us this opportunity to highlight some of the amazing artists that come through our doors each day.

Art classes have a different focus at each level. Younger students get a chance to work on motor skills, following directions, and seeing a project through to completion. As they get older, students are exposed to many different materials including acrylic paint, watercolor, and clay in addition to traditional pencil drawing. They learn about what makes an image 'good' (hint: it isn't just how realistic you can draw something). But most important, we as teachers try to help them develop their problem-solving skills. There are often many ways to solve a problem if we get stuck. If we can teach students to be flexible, talk it through with someone, and try a different way, they will become more resilient both in and out of the classroom.

Sincerely,
Ms. Hardy (Junior-Senior High Art)
and
Ms. Jenkins (Elementary Art)

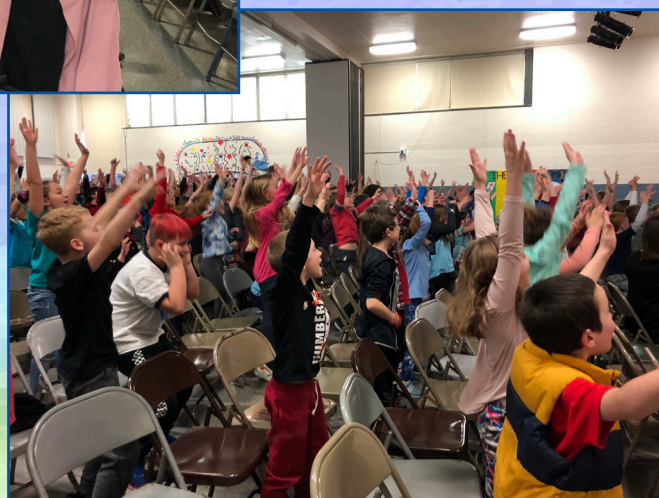

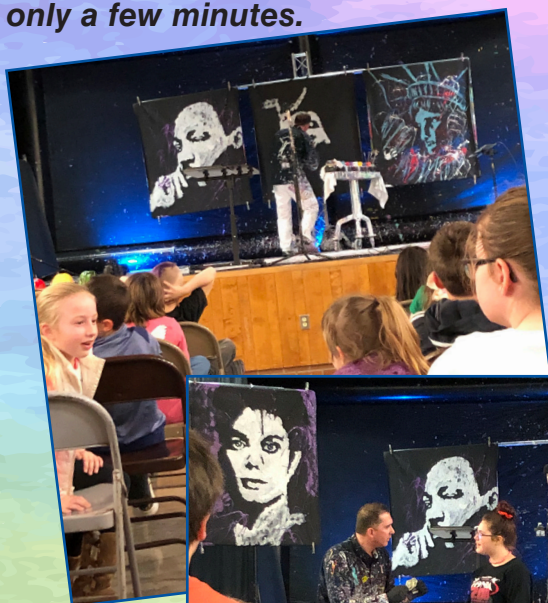

VALENTINE'S DAY FIREWORKS

Guilford students made Valentine's Day fireworks using chalk pastels and their fingers. They practiced making thick lines and tracing stencils while having fun in Art Class!

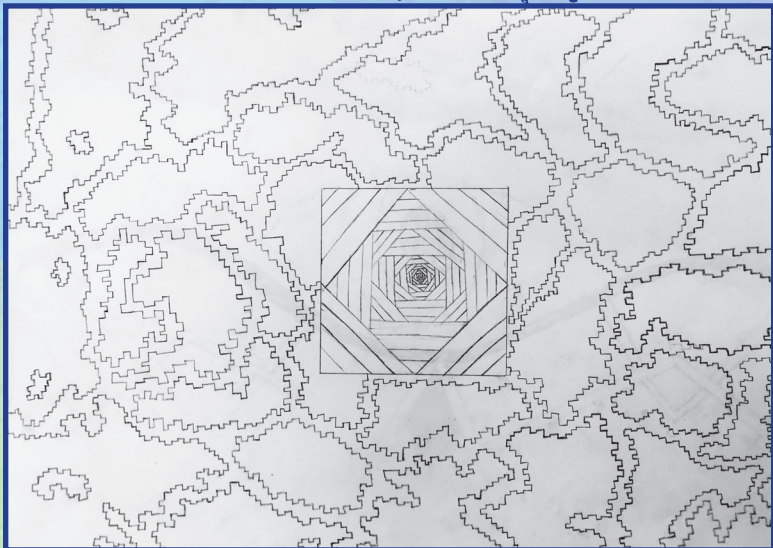

EMOTION INTO ART

Visiting artist, Tom Varano from Emotion Into Art, came to Greenlawn and shared his speed painting skills, as well as important life messages such as bullying, kindness, and leadership. He captivated the entire school with his ability to paint large-scale portraits of the Statue of Liberty, Simba, Michael Jackson, and Martin Luther King Jr. in only a few minutes.

ACTION SHOTS

students were tasked with drawing a monster. However, they had to use both hands to draw one monster, and each hand had to draw the mirror image of the other half.

Tandem

with this monster drawing, two students worked together. One student drew slowly while the other had to follow along and draw the mirror image.
