As our thoughts echo back through our high school years they wouldn't be complete without remembering a woman who has always given us understanding and raised our spirits when they were low. She has shown us the many advantages of maintaining a smile. Even when her own job became hectic, she never refused help or encouragement to another. Her numerous visitors throughout the day are proof of her willingness to listen as well as her value as a listener. Her sparkling wit and personality have won her many friends and an admiring audience.

It gives us great pleasure indeed to dedicate our yearbook to this deserving and considerate woman. We, the seniors of the class of 1969, upon leaving B-G, wish to thank you, Mrs. Murphy, for the thoughtfulness you have shown us all.

The highest purpose is to impart knowledge; the ultimate achievement, to impart wisdom. Each is in itself an art. Mr. Armstrong has mastered both; for this reason, then, we honor him.

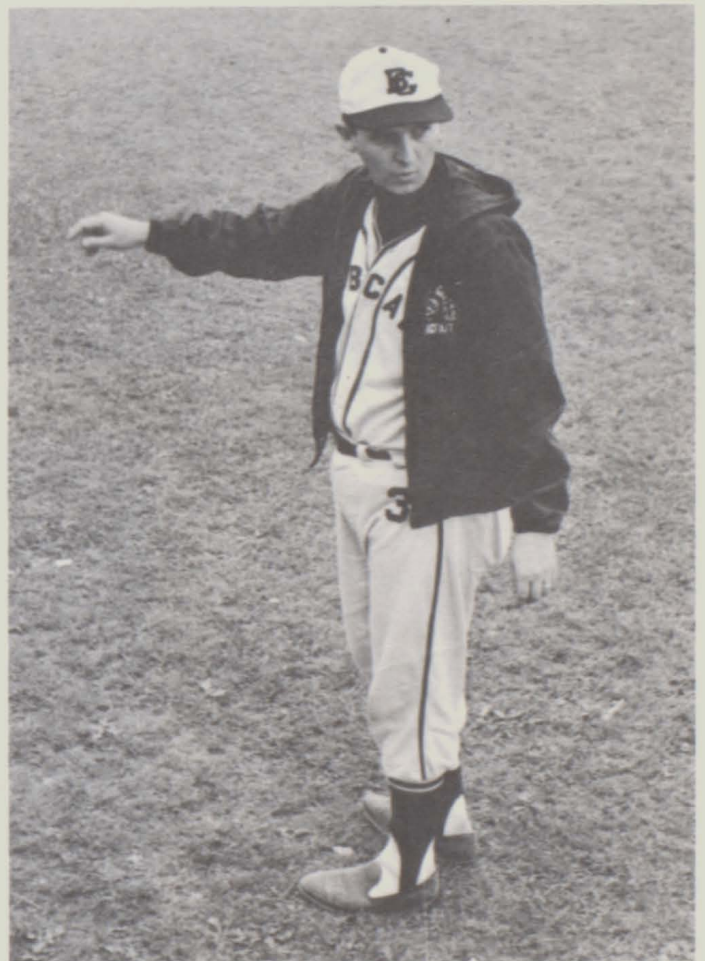

He willingly forfeits his time to coach Jr. High football, Varsity baseball, and J.V. basketball. His continual good humor has won him admiration from his players.

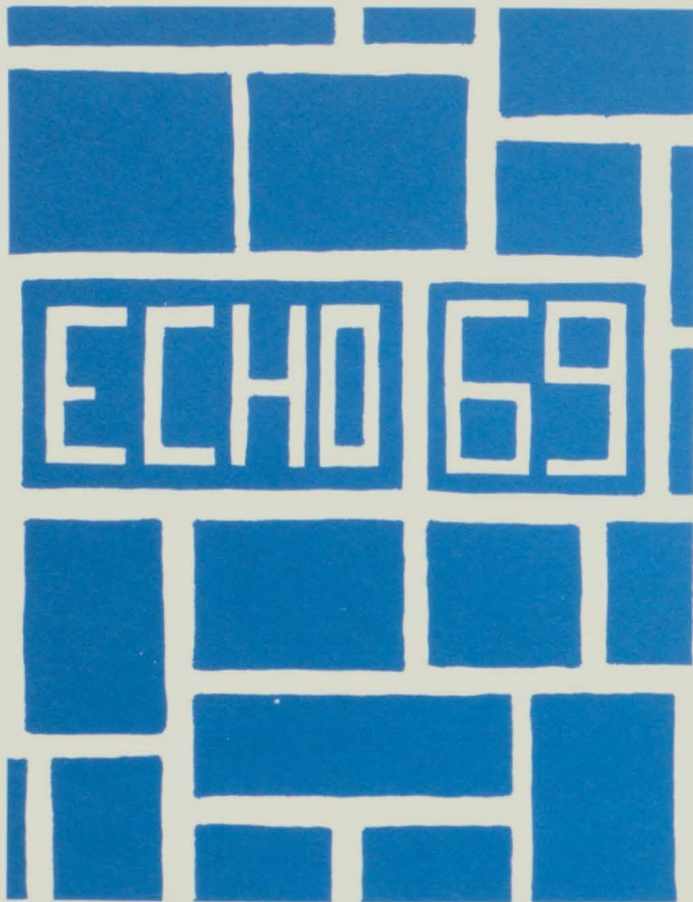

Even more outstanding is Mr. Armstrong's attitude toward his students. He taught us the basic principles of science, without which we could never have made it through our high school courses. By setting daily goals for us without sacrificing the ultimate goal of understanding, he inspires his students to realize their full potential. It is a privilege to dedicate our yearbook to you, Mr. Armstrong, a fine teacher and coach and an even finer man.

To you, Helen Murphy and Roger Armstrong . . .

ECHOING 1969

We, the staff of 1969, have chosen the theme "Echoing" to reflect the events of the past year. We hope we have included all of the memories which may hold meaning for you. These events encompass students, academics, social life, sports, graduations, school, and community. Following these guidelines, we present to you our account of 1968-69.

Mr. Sumner Bossler

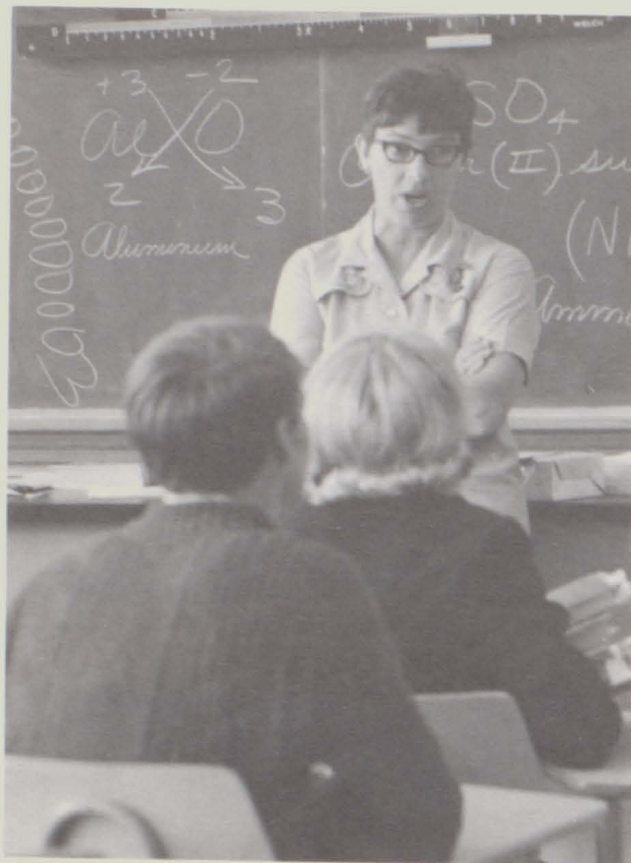

This year the English Department will enter into the third year of its new program. This program divides all students of each class into levels, each with a different curriculum. This enables the students who are planning to go to college to take a college preparatory course in their final year. This is proving successful and the English Department plans to continue it.

This year has also been a very important one to our Language Department. Under our reconstruction plan, the department has moved into its new language suite. It has a Listen and Response Lab for thirty students under the supervision of the instructor and an independent study center for five students for Listen, Respond, and Record. This is the multimedia center for independent study which enables students to advance at their own pace.

A teacher, by presenting her subject in an enthusiastic way, can generate her enthusiasm to her students.

The Home Economics Department stresses the importance of the individual in family and community life.

Its courses range from child development, and personal and family living, to home management. The course teaches the importance of the right textiles and clothing, and the fundamentals of good nutrition. The individual is the important person in these courses.

History is taught with the emphasis on current events; the use of other books or documents compliment the textbook.

It helps explain why a nation's physical features and cultural aspects affect its stand on international affairs. This aids in the understanding of worldwide problems.

Mathematics is one of the most important fields in education, and we, at Bainbridge-Guilford Central School, can boast of having one of the most well-rounded Mathematics departments in the area.

Equipped with many able teachers, the department offers courses in Geometry, Trigonometry, Elementary Algebra, Intermediate Algebra, and General Math in senior high school. In Jr. High, the department provides the necessary background for the fields offered in Sr. High School.

The Music Department at Bainbridge-Guilford High School plays an important part in the development of aesthetic values in the students. When they reach seventh grade, the once squeaking instrumentalists begin playing together in Jr. Band and Jr. Orchestra. Also, many participate in Jr. Chorus. As they grow older, they are graduated into Senior High organizations which demand that each member consider himself as important as any other.

Personal attention to individual pupils promotes rapport between faculty and students.

Teachers prepare students for careers

To insure success in the business world of today, it is necessary to achieve a large commercial and vocational background.

Stemming from elementary fundamentals in Typing I and Shorthand I, students learn the basic rules which will guide them to a successful business career. Courses in Business Math, Bookkeeping, and Business Law are also part of this informative program.

With the addition of three new laboratories, B-G's Science Program will take one giant step forward. A larger number of science teachers, and the provision for a full year of seventh and eighth grade science is another improvement which B-G has made for the year of 1968-1969. Many worthwhile field trips to the Searles Hill area will add to the stimulating activities of our students.

With these improvements, the Science Department of B-G will be able to approach its goal. This is to provide each student in its classes with the opportunity to learn by experimentation.

When not teaching, she devotes much time to classroom preparation.

Creative arts encourage self-expression

We at B-G are fortunate to have one of the finest physical education departments in the area. As our school has grown, so has our physical education staff, with Miss Reeves our newest addition to this staff. Basic to all our sports teams are the techniques learned in every gym class. It is here that all of our athletes get their introduction to their chosen sports. Our physical education department is also important in furthering our school's image.

Art plays an important part in building the cultural background of B-G's students. Using various materials they learn self-expression. At Christmastime, they decorate the classroom doors to help increase holiday spirit. In the spring, samples of the students' work is sent to Roberson Memorial in Binghamton for display. The artwork is judged, and any winning pieces are sent on to national competition. Proof of B-G's fine art department is shown by the fact that every year several graduates continue their work in the field of art.

Although the industrial arts department tries to develop in each student a measure of skill in the use of tools and machines, this is not its main objective. It would rather develop in each student an active interest in industrial methods and problems of production and exchange. Industrial Arts is considered a part of general education because it derives its content from industry which is a basic element of our culture. The courses offered at our school are metalworking, woodworking, power machines, and general courses.

The Cross Country team was tops in the Pioneer League for the third year in a row. In dual meets, the runners were 5-0. The league meet saw B-G dominating both the Varsity and JV races. Winning the Varsity run was Gary Sopko, followed by Denny Young (4th), Pete Flyzik (7th), Dan George (9th), and Jim Williams (15th) for a total of 36 points to outdistance second-place Harpursville with 66 points. In the JV race, B-G captured the first four places to easily win.

remain in the fight for the league title

The Bobcat Varsity Basketball team showed great improvement and first-rate teamwork among the players. The team consisted of five seniors, three juniors, and two sophomores. Seniors Bob Hayes and Mike Fletcher had an outstanding year, aided by the fine defensive play of Andy Kelly (Junior). Sophomores Jack Judd and Gary Sopko were promoted to Varsity after only one year as JVs.

B-G played host to the Tri-Town News Christmas Tournament. Participating schools were Sidney, Unatego, Johnstown, and B-G. The first night of the tournament, B-G lost to Sidney and Unatego lost to Johnstown. The final night, Johnstown faced Sidney for the championship. Although Sidney took the title, Johnstown fought to the finish.

The most valuable player, Ron Pedrick, was chosen from second place Johnstown. All-stars were Mike Fletcher (B-G), Don Gomez and John Nolan (Sidney), Ward Coe and Rocky Little (Unatego), and Ron Pedrick. Despite the results, B-G enjoyed playing host to the annual vacation tournament.

Although the purpose of JV sports is to prepare the boys for varsity sports, the JV basketball team was also out to win. Their record of the 1968-69 season was proof of this. In the Christmas tournament the B-G Bobkittens came in in second place, barely losing to a top-notch Sidney team. We came out ahead of the Deposit and Walton teams. The school may look forward to a first rate team if the Bobkittens keep up their steam.

The team is headed by senior co-captains Bob Hinkley and Fred Worman. Fred participated in last year's state championship on Long Island. Excepting these two seniors, B-G has a young, building team, so we look forward to even better seasons in the next several years.

through another grueling season

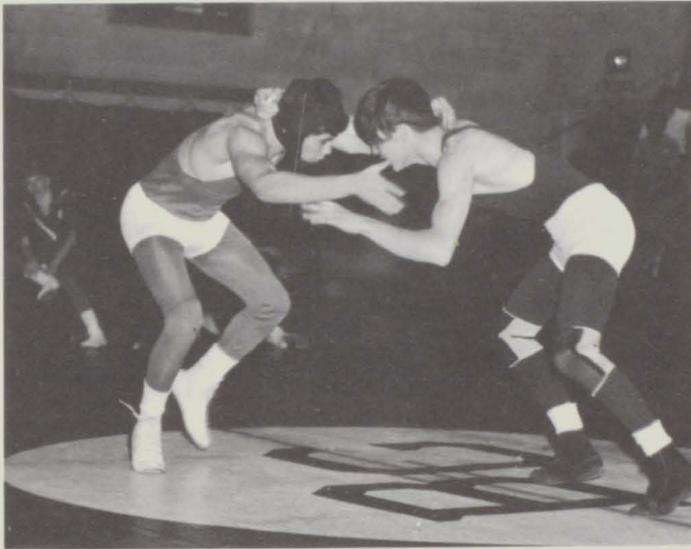

The year of 1968-69 was a year of rebuilding for B-G's Wrestling team. With only a few returning varsity wrestlers, intense practice was the logical solution. Training was made more worthwhile this year by the completion of the wrestling practice room. It enables the wrestlers to dedicate more of their time to practice and less to setting up for it. They are also able to control the temperature of the room which is a great help in controlling weight. With the aid of their new room and much new talent, Mr. Brubaker put together another top team. He was assisted by Mr. Rice, the new assistant coach.

B-G started the season with a loss to powerful Sidney but regained momentum by beating Unatego and Harpursville. They also lost to Oxford by only three points in one of their finest matches of the season.

The 1968 track team was on the top of the heap in the Pioneer Association again this year. It won five out of five of its league meets, although it lost two out of three of the non-league meets. The team came in second in a triangular meet with Hancock and Delhi, and captured first place in a triangular meet with league contenders Hancock and Harpursville. At the Pioneer Association meet, they really whopped all the teams that were there. None came within thirty points of our victorious team. However, we had a bit of trouble at the Section IV Meet. Due to our rising student population we were moved up to Class "B" and this is why we only came in fourth place out of six schools. It was quite a switch to be moved up to Class B as that put us in the running with larger schools such as Sidney. The team expects to improve on this next year as there are quite a few up and coming underclass track enthusiasts.

There's no finer pleasure than to take off for the golf course on a warm spring afternoon after a day of school. The B-G golf team is well aware of this, too. Almost any day after school you will find them out diligently practicing their game or competing against rival schools. Although they did not pile up a spectacular amount of victories, the avid enthusiasm of the golfers and their constant good humor did much to alleviate the disappointments of losing.

Bowling provides lifetime enjoyment

Cindy Gorton "fixes" the score sheet for her teammates.

A ninth grade girls team discusses their scores while waiting for their turn to bowl.

Weekly after school, many of our students participate in bowling intramurals at the Bowl-O-Drome. At the beginning of the year, five-man teams were formed and each week these teams competed against each other for the league championship. The six individuals having the highest averages at the end of each week, from Tuesday and Thursday nights, formed the boys' and girls' varsity bowling team for the coming Saturday. On Saturday, these two teams competed against other schools for the Pioneer League Championship. Both B-G teams are defending champions of this title.

JV Baseball team posts 10-2 record in '68

Gordy Weeden doublechecks his shoelaces to be sure he won't trip when rounding first base.

The JV baseball team had one of its best seasons ever this year. With special efforts put forth by Danny Gardner (pitcher), Sam Fletcher, Eric Hyatt, Gordy Weeden, Al Nabinger, and Paul Coufos, the JV team had 10 wins out of 12 games. Though Oxford and Deposit teams handed the team its only 2 losses, B-G beat Oxford, our rivals for the League championship, the first time we played them. We were tied with them for the championship right up until the last game when they defeated us in a real battle that ended with Oxford out ahead, 2-1. Although the team only ended up in 2nd place in the Pioneer League Association, no one will think of the 1968 JV baseball team as "only second best."

Another homer for the JV's is hit by Eric Hyatt.

B-G's baseball team had another fairly successful season with an 8 win, 4 loss record in the league and a 9-7 record overall. Coach Armstrong guided his team very close to the Pioneer Championship. They were in the running until nearly the end of the season when several losses combined to hurt our standing. Most of the team will be returning this year so there is a good chance of an even better season in 1969.

Those fellows don't know enough to come in out of the sun.

Echo staff publishes record of school year

Editors: Row 1: G. Wessels (Academics), P. Knoll (Sports), C. Shawler (Business mgr.), S. O'Connor (Literary), C. Williams (Sales), D. Schlafer (Seniors); Row 2: J. DeClue (Photo), P. Zicari (Photo), P. Flyzik (Editor-in-chief), E. Hyatt (Photo), C. Leighton (Literary); Absent: M. Miller (Classes), L. Mulkins (Activities).

B-G's yearbook staff is trying a slightly different system of organization this year. The former Literary Staff has been incorporated into the Layout Staff, thus enabling the two staffs to work closer together. Other innovations this year include more use of colored photos and duo-tone (a system of printing using any one color and black). We hope that these new ideas will be valuable improvements to our yearbook.

Newspaper becomes more imaginative

This was a big year for B-G's newspaper, the Blue and White. The editor, Pete Zicari, Co-editor, Pat Knoll, and Mr. Vicary's Senior English class made the Blue and White more imaginative than ever before. This year the column, "Latest Logos," was greatly improved, and "Ann Slanders" took the place of "Dear Andy". These new innovations were just a part of the "bigness" in this year's high caliber newspaper. The satirical, critical, humorous, and straight-forward Blue and White was very successful in relaying newsworthy items to the students of B-G.

Chuck Frewert eagerly buys his monthly Blue and White.

The Junior High Blue and White is responsible for one half of the news spread throughout our school. Besides working diligently on write-ups of clubs and activities, the staff also has write-ups for interesting columns. Candidates and campaign managers for Student Council offices pause after their speeches to have their picture taken.

The students of B-G have much to be proud of in their Senior High Student Council. This year, with Mr. Lyons as our new advisor, Bud Carpenter as President, and Mark Sejersen as Vice-President, the Council has tread new steps for the betterment of the Senior High. A couple of the issues under contention are the idea of separate class treasuries and the attempt to involve the community with student activities. The Senior High Student Council works hard to improve conditions and produce new ideas for the students of B-G.

The Junior High Student Council is a successful model of the Senior High Student Council. Despite the controversy of combining the two councils, the Junior High Council has been effective in representing the ever-growing Junior High School. The experience the members gain from a model council government in the Junior High is certainly valuable when these students reach the higher grades. With Joyce Belokur as President, and Tracey Benson as Vice-President, the members of the Junior High Student Council continue to work hard to satisfy the students they represent.

Honor Society enters one-act play contest

E. Best (adv.), K. Forsberg, L. Zicari, M. Vicary, D. Hubbard, K. Boening, S. O'Connor (v. pres.), P. Zicari (sec.), P. Knoll, M. Norris, P. Flyzik, B. Hinkley (pres.); New members: S. Opal, C. The Honor Society this year has continued doing all of its old projects and has started many new ones. The Society meets once every month before school. They hold two inductions each year—one after the first marking period and one after the third. It puts on teas after the induction for new members and their families. The Society is planning to put on a one-act play for a contest sponsored by the Sidney Honor Society. They also plan to tour some colleges before the year ends.

FHA, Jr. H. S. provide services to B-G

This year, the Jr. Honor Society came under the direction of Mr. Palmer, Junior High Guidance counselor, after having been under the direction of Mrs. Cheesbro since the founding of its chapter. Projects of the Jr. Honor Society include making honor roll posters for every subject. The students also make two trips to colleges during the year to become better acquainted with college life.

The Future Homemakers of America Club deals primarily with extending the study of Home Economics in such areas as health, cooking, and sewing. The members also participate in community projects, one of which is making triangular bandages for the Emergency Squad. The FHA, under the direction of Mrs. Blaisdell, is experiencing new growth by the addition of many enthusiastic students.

The members of the A-V Club assist our Audio-Visual Department in the maintenance and operation of our extensive A-V program. This includes the operation of various types of projectors, tape recorders, record players, cameras and our new closed-circuit television system. Their assistance has proven invaluable to our sports program in the filming of various games and matches as well as in the classroom. Coordinating their efforts is Mr. Schacher, the head of the new department. We are grateful for the efforts of these people on the behalf of our classes.

B-G's amateur scientists explore unknowns

This year the former Bi-Phy-Chems Club was broken up into two clubs, Phy-Chems and a new Bio-Conservation Club. Phy-Chems, with Mrs. Monroe, will appeal to those energetic students interested in Physics or Chemistry who, among other things, like to mix up concoctions in the laboratory. For hardy people who like the outdoors and are concerned about today's problem of conservation, there is the Bio-Conservation Club under the direction of Mr. Vredenburgh.

Dominique Hyatt, Mr. and Mrs. Youngblood indulge in extra literary activities.

Cheryl Leighton expresses her point of view.

The Literary Club is a fairly new organization that takes pride in its success. Under the supervision of Mr. Youngblood, the members of the Literary Club meet each month to openly discuss a designated book. The books chosen are usually modern and controversial novels such as: Brave New Worlds, The Catcher in the Rye, and Lord of the Flies. The Literary Club provides its members a chance to express openly their opinions about a book and its implications in the modern world of today.

Blocks is an art club organized this year by some interested B-G students. Their activities include graphic art and wood block printing.

The Art Club serves the school and community. Various members have their works put on display around the town. They make posters for different community projects such as the Rotary Show. At Christmas time, they put our Bobcat, displayed as Santa, on the front lawn to add to the community's spirit. They also go to museums around the state to look at other artist's work. They provide an artistic touch throughout the school.

Stage Crew backs up school productions

Stage Crew this year is again under the able direction of Carl Hutchinson. The captain of the crew is Bob Wiswell. The Stage Crew's assistance to the various programs, assemblies, concerts, and shows put on in our school has been invaluable. The setting up, running, and disassembling of the equipment used is often a time-consuming and tedious job, but these volunteers work willingly and efficiently.

This year's Traffic Squad is co-captained by Robert Hinkley and Mike Blincoc. Their advisor is Mr. Knightes. The squad is made up of forty members, consisting of juniors and seniors. These members are screened by teachers and finally Student Council. They enable the student body to pass efficiently and orderly from class to class.

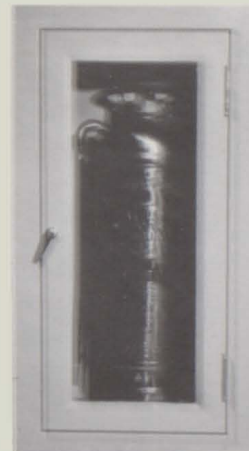

The Fire Squad is captained by Larry Gardner. This squad, also, is advised by Mr. Knightes. Their service in the case of an emergency is indispensable. The drills they conduct are also very necessary in the eventuality that we ever have a fire in the school. Without them, there would be a dangerous situation indeed.

Bob Wiswell and Ambrose Smith keep an eye on the performance while manning the lights.

The Sr. Band at B.G.H.S. is one of the most outstanding organizations in the entire school. Under the direction of Mr. David Harvey, the band has gained glory in both its county and state. Last summer, the band captured several trophies and awards. Also, last spring the band received a grade of 6A at the NYSSMA contests at Oxford. In August the band journeyed to Old Forge where, after a day of fun in the sun, the members gave a concert on the beach. The following Wednesday, as a reward for a fine season, the band journeyed to Lincoln Center in New York City where they saw "West Side Story." These honors are really only a start to one of the finest music departments in the state.

In Bainbridge-Guilford Jr. High School, a well-rounded music program is readily available for any and all interested students. The Jr. Chorus is but one facet of this program. The chorus is comprised of over 125 students who learn some of the basic rudiments of singing with syllables. Throughout the year the Jr. Chorus, under the direction of Mr. Stock, has participated in several concerts which were very well received by the masses.

Jr. High girls find singing is hard work.

Sr. Chorus is probably one of the largest organizations at B-G Sr. High. Its members include some 120 students, all of which auditioned before attaining membership. The Sr. Chorus, under the direction of Mr. Stock, rehearses twice a week working primarily on concert music. This year they have performed several works written in foreign languages, and also songs of varying degrees of difficulty in English. Last year at the NYSSMA ratings at Oxford, the chorus received a grade of 5B + , 6A being rated the highest.

The Sr. Orchestra is the smallest of the three major music organizations at B-G. This year the Orchestra is under the direction of Mr. Johnson who was formerly a string teacher at Norwich. The orchestra has performed at several concerts this past school year, one of which featured "Exodus," a piano solo played by Mr. Johnson's twin brother. Our school can be proud of producing one of the few high school orchestras in this area.

Jr. Orchestra is an organization comprised of Jr. High musicians. Directed by Mr. Johnson, the group performed at several concerts the past school year. Even though it is smaller than Jr. Band and Jr. Chorus, the Jr. Orchestra is also a vital part of the Jr. High Music program in which students gain experience in one of the many performing arts.

I lived through freshman initiation. . .

Dave Tompkins and Lynne Moore are fateless lovers who at last have met.

Kathy Morse and Robin Strier are handsome models of the freshman initiation.

Cinderfella Belokur breaks under the strain of womanhood.

but I knew the true test was yet to come.

The day you enter 9th grade you begin an exciting year. A whole new world is open to you, a world of sports, more social events to participate in—AND Initiation. The big event for the freshmen is their initiation. For one day they have to suffer the demands of the juniors which include wearing strange clothing (?) and performing various acts of servitude.

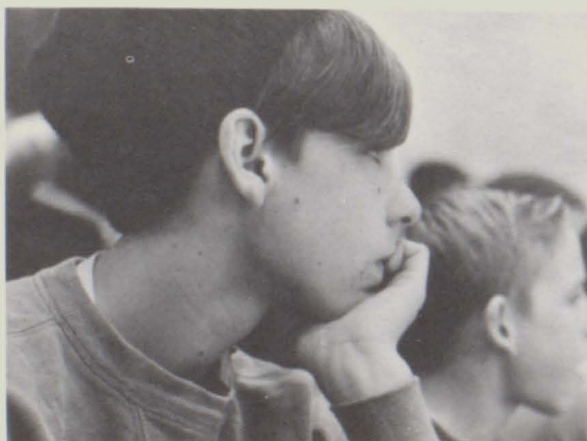

"I don't believe this band practice," exclaims Fayne George.

Student teachers, Mr. Pitcher and Mr. Farenell, enjoy a going away party given by the freshmen.

This is the last step before becoming a Senior, or reaching the top of the High School ladder. Your first two years of high school have passed so quickly. For some, the time has passed too fast. Yet there are many more things to look forward to in the Junior year. Initiating the Freshmen is an important project and a jolly sort of pastime at the beginning of the year. For the rest of the year, the juniors diligently plan their Prom which may be considered the climax of B-G's social season.

benefit from exchange students

Spending the year in Tres Arroyos, Argentina, is Mike Caracciolo, our representative from B-G for this year. Tres Arroyos is a town of approximately 45,000 people. Mike attends school Monday through Friday from 1:15 p.m. to 6 or 6:30 p.m. He carries eleven subjects and spends his spare time studying, traveling through the country, and on the beach. He attends many parties, dinners, and teas.

As Mike writes of his year there: "The people of Argentina are a very warm people. They have opened their homes and lives to me."

B-G is fortunate in having another foreign exchange student this year. Ingrid Aldenius, a pert sixteen-year-old blonde, hails from Helsingborg, Sweden. She lives with her parents, a sister and a brother in this picturesque town, approximately a twenty minute ferry-ride from Denmark.

In comparing her life at home with her life at B-G, Ingrid notes differences in the basic educational structure. Swedish children begin school at the age of seven and continue for nine years, at which time they may leave or continue for three more years.

Among her extra-curricular interests at B-G, are Chorus, Art Club, and Volleyball. We hope that Ingrid will learn much about American life from her stay at B-G.

Greg Kumpikas spent last year as an ambassador from Bainbridge to Stenungsund, Sweden. While in Sweden he lived in a village of 12,000. He stayed with two different families, the Ohlssons and the Matells. He missed the extra-curricular activities, so popular in our country. He did, however, have the opportunity to play on a city basketball team, the Gothenburg's City basketball team. During his stay in Sweden, he carried thirteen different courses. Greg has helped to further understanding between our two countries.

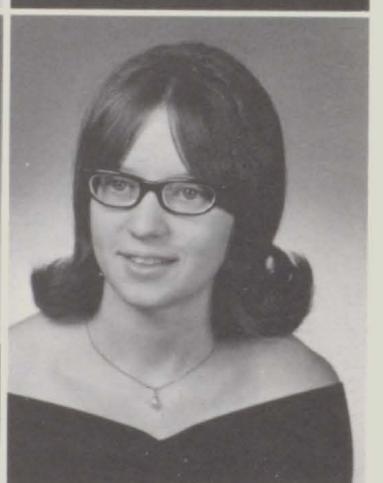

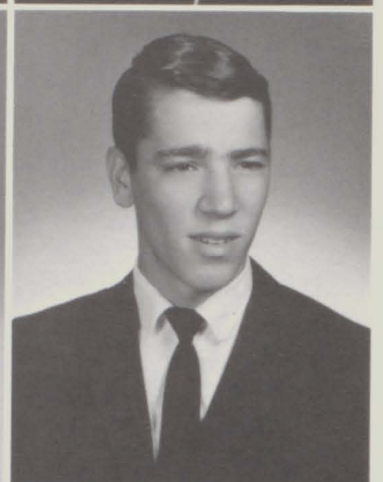

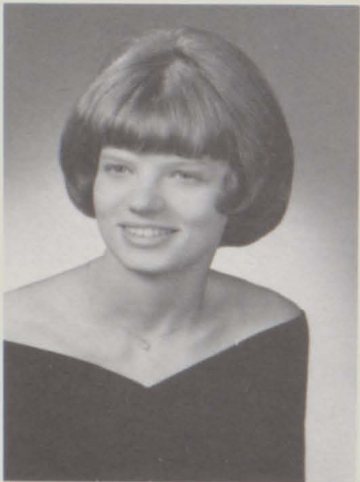

Mike Caracciolo, a B-G representative in Argentina, poses with two other American exchange students.

Mike stands proud as he represents the U. S. in All-Nations day in Argentina.

Mike is naturally drawn to the "Fountain of Love" while in Buenos Aires.

The Senior class of 1969 is certainly a class worthy of respect. The Seniors have proved their imagination and competence in their very successful Junior Prom, "Camelot." This class has shown its scholastic abilities in the increasing number of scholarships given to them. The Seniors were trusted enough to be the first class to have unsupervised study halls. These many admirable characteristics enable the class of '69 to be remembered with affection by B-G students.

Now it is past. . .

A year is finished, not any year but a unique year, a year like no other—'68-'69. This book is a small part of it. We have tried to recapture some of the highlights—from last year's Prom to this year's basketball teams. All is echoed in this book.

A year is finished. It has been hard work and much fun. We have all grown with this yearbook. Sometimes egos are hurt and arguments take place but all is forgiven and we return to the noisy, confused meetings as usual.

"Where is page 107?"

"How long are heads?"

"Who's writing the copy for page 27?"

"Bring me an apple while you're going . . . me, too . . . don't forget mine."

"Joan, shut up and work."

A year is finished. To those who helped it along, we say thank you: Varden Studios for sending a photographer at a moment's notice, various mothers for providing places and food for our Saturday meetings; and most of all the staff members who gave up their time to produce this book.

Our year is finished. With a sad and sentimental but proud feeling we leave this book, this school to those who follow in the hopes they will continue what has been started by us and others.

A year is finished. Now it is past.
